CONNECTICUT LEGISLATION IN REFERENCE TO FOREIGNERS .- The Legislature of Connecticut, which adjourned on the 30th ult., passed an act that forbids her State courts to take cognizance of cases or applications for naturalization, thus leaving that subject where it properly belongs-to the U.S. courts. A proposition to end the constitution of the State also passed bean houses, and will be submitted to the people of the State for confirmation. It provides that no person shall be entitled to vote unless he can read distinctly and with facility any clause or section of the constitution or laws of the State or of the United States.

Regarded in the abstract, this proposition to restrict the privileges of voting to those only who can read is right, provided every one, rich and poor, has the means of learning to read. In Connecticut this is probably the case, but it is not so in many of the Western and Southern States. In New England the free-school system has been so extended and perfected that every person's children, however poor he may be, can receive the benefit of instruction in reading and writing. The neglect to avail themselves of the advantages thus afforded of acquiring the rudiments of an English education may therefore in that section of country be justly regarded to some extent as a crime that may be punished by forfeiture of the right to vote. In the South and West, where free schools are few and far between, such a rule would perhaps be unjust. The prevalence of the practice of stumpspeaking in this section of country supplies to those who cannot read the means of acquiring a tolerable knowledge of politics, a superficial knowledge, it is true, but still of a character that enables the large majority to vote understandingly. But when we consider this subject as affecting the foreign vote, its operation cannot but be beneficial. If a foreigner will not take trouble to learn to read and speak our lanvote on political questions understandingly. We like the principle of this Connecticut proposition, and hope, that, after the extension of the free-school system to every part of every county in every State, the limitation on the elective franchise may in time be made univer-guage, he cannot, of necessity, be competent to

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] THE POET'S SONG. Song-Spirit, Hove thee!
With thee will I rove
Through sunlight and shadow,
Through plade and through grove,
Through forest and desert,
O'er mountain and plain,
Through lene gloomy caverns
Beneath the blue main. Though wild be thy wanderings I follow thee still!

Where roses are blooming And lily-cups bend,
With sweet weight of nectar
When night-dews descend;
Where the rich breath of summer Floats lightly along With voices of gladness
And echoes of song,
Where love's fairy tintings
On all things I see, Oh! Spirit of Beauty 1 wander with thee

Dark through the deep forest Our pathway may lie, Where falleth no sunbeam From summer's soft sky, Or far o'er the desert Where dangers and fear Oft drain from the eyelids The wet scalding tear! Where'er in the darkness Thy footsteps may flee, Oh! Spirit of Beauty, I wander with thee!

Where heary-topped mountains
In grandeur arise,
Whose arrowy summits
Aspire to the skies, Where the lightning is darting His fierce, fiery tongue,
And the dread thunder rolling
His huge car along, Where hoarse winds are wailing Their dirge o'er the lea, Oh! Spirit of Beauty, I wander with thee!

Down deep in the caverns That lie 'neath the sea, Where wild waves are singing Their sad minstrelsy, Where mermaids are weeping Bright pearls in their cells, And Peris are dreaming In amber-hued shells, Still on through the depths
Of the dark rolling sea, Oh! Spirit of Beauty, I'll wander with thee!

Up, up, through the blue vault Of heaven, afar, We reach Eden's portals On swift eager wing, And list to the chorus The angel-choirs sing! Song-Spirit, in Eden Thy dwelling shall be! Song-Spirit, in Eden I'll wander with thee! FAIRMOUNT, TENN., June 1, 1855.

THE R. L. COBB.—This is a new sternwheel steamboat, just completed here for the Cumberland river trade. She is 162 feet long, has 31 feet beam, and 5 feet hold. Her machinery consists of two 41 feet stroke engines, with a cylinder 141 inches in diameter, and two boilers, 26 feet long and 38 inches in diameter. Her draught is 16 inches light and she has capacity for carrying 400 tons. She has a neat cabin, finely furnished, and has all the safeguards required by the steamboat law. The boat reflects credit on all who have aided in her construction. Her hull was built by the Howards, her cabin by Stratton & Downs, engines by Hewitt & Symmes, boilers by Smith, painting was done by J. H. Thompson & Co; carpets, curtains, &c., from the house of Bent & Duvall; matresses from Devinney; cabin furniture by John Simm; tilities. bells and bell-work by John Kaye.

The Cobb will be commanded by Capt. Northern, who is favorably known in the trade. She leaves for Nashville to-day.

EMPEROR SUNK .- A telegraphic dispatch from Montgomery, received in Mobile, announces the total loss of the steamboat Emperor, which was sunk near Tyas Bar, between Selma and Montgomery. This is the same steamer which laid aground in the Alabama for so many months and was only floated off by the recent rise in the river.

The matress manufactory of Mr. John A. Dickinson was burglarously entered night before last. Luckity Mr. D. has some other place than his store to deposit his money, which the burglars were no doubt after. Nothing was taken.

These parties, it is understood, control about three-fourths of all the flour and grain now in st re awaiting shipment, and in transitu, from the western granaries to the eastern markets. The object of their meeting was to combine in order to keep up the present prices until the latest possible moment. When it is recollected that much the largest proportion of the stock now in hand and expected to be made available before the receipt of the new harvest, is entirely controlled by a limited number of dealers, the task which they have undertaken is not one attended with any very great difficulty.

The combination went into operation early last week, and had the effect to immediately check the downward tendency of prices, which had become alarming, and to cause them again to go upward. Purchases, to a considerable extent, were also made by those in the secret, extent, were also made by those in the secret, and several unsuspecting outsiders in this vicinity were victimized. Opening of the French Legislative Assembly-Speech of the Emperor .- The French Legislative Assembly was opened on the 2d of July, when the Emperor Louis Napoleon delivered the following speech:

Messieurs les Senateurs, Messieurs les Deputes: The diplomatic negotiations commenced during the course of our last session already made you foresee that I should be obliged to call you together when they came to a termination.

Unhappily, the conferences of Vienna have failed in procuring peace, and I come again to appeal to the patriotism of the country and to your own. Were we wanting in moderation in settling the conditions? I do not fear to exam-

In that situation the Cabinet of Vienna asked us if we would consent to treat upon bases vaguely formulated. Before our successes a refusal on our part seemed natural. Was it not to be supposed, forsooth, that the demands of France and England would increase in proportion to the greatness of the struggle and of the sacrifices already made?

Well, France and England did not turn their advantages to account, or even make the most of the rights given to them by previous treaties, so much had they at heart to facilitate peace and to give an unchallengeable proof of their

Russia, who had consented, in theory, to put an end to her preponderance in the Black Sea, has refused every limitation of her naval forces, and we have still to wait for Austria to fulfil her engagements, which consisted in rendering our treaty of alliance offensive and defensive if the negotiations failed.

My government will propose to you to vote the annual recruitment bill; there will be no ex-traordinary levy, and the bill will take the usual course necessary for the regularity of the administration of a recruitment bill.

In conclusion, gentlemen, let us pay here, solemnly, a just tribute of praise to those who fight for the country; let us mingle our regrets for those whose loss we have to deplore.

So great an example of unselfishness and constancy will not have been given in vain to the world.

Let us not be discouraged by the sacrifice which are necessary, for, as you are aware, a nation must either abdicate every political character, or, if it possesses the instinct and the will to act conformably to its generous nature, to its historical traditions, to its providential mission, it must learn how to support at times the trials which alone can re-temper it, and restore it to the rank which is its due.

Faith in the Almighty, perseverance in our efforts, and we shall obtain a peace worthy of the alliance of two great nations.

The London Times's correspondent, writing from the Baltic, states that, on the 21st ult., the Amphion, 36 guns, screw frigate, while employ-ed in reconnoitering the fortifications at Sweaborg, accidentally mistook the channel, and in consequence grounded. The boats were imme-diately dispatched in all directions to sound, and while so employed one of the near forts opened a brisk fire upon the frigate. Four shots struck her, killing one man and wounding two others. The captain of the Amphion, however, returned the compliment with such energy and precision that he succeeded in blowing up a large powder

A TRAGEDY .- Late Baltimore papers speak of a brutal affair which occurred a few days ago at Fort McHenry, resulting in the death of one of the soldiers. The American of Saturday gives additional information on the subject:

The circumstances in connection with the death of Louis Loup, at Fort McHenry, on the 11th inst., are said to be of a more atrocious character than was at first reported. On the authority of a gentleman in the U. S. service it was yesterday stated that on Wednesday night Loup was making a noise in one of the buildings, when Morrow was ordered by the officer on guard to go to him and tell him to be quiet. Morrow approached Loup, and, in execution of the order to quiet him, commenced beating him in a very severe manner, when another party interfered and caused him to desist his inhuman treatment.

Morrow afterwards went to him and com-menced the beating a second time, and called upon one of the soldiers to assist to throw him down stairs. Loup requested in an agonizing tone that he might be shot to end his sufferings, and at this period the corporal approached and prevented his being thrown down stairs. He was afterwards taken to the flag-staff by Morrow, and his hands tied, and a piece of blanket wrapped around a rope put in his mouth. Whist this rope was being tied around his head Loup is supposed to have suffocated, as he fell back, and tree hanging by his bands along for about and was hanging by his hands alone for about two hours and a half. Another soldier was with Morrow at the time the blanket was put in Loup's mouth, but when he saw that he was suffocating, he ran away and witnessed no more of the scene until he was removed a corpse.

The officer of the day asserts that he did not give the order to Morrow to beat Loup, and knew nothing of the tragic occurrence until the matter was over. A rumor was current at the Fort, when the high constable arrested Morrow, to the effect that several of the soldiers urged Morrow to desert, and offered him mo-

IMPORTANT FROM SIERRA LEONE-FAILURE of a British Expedition against the Natives. The brig Judge Blaney arrived last evening from Sierra Leone, which place she left June 3d, bringing papers and advices to that date. According to a statement in the New Era, published at Sierra Leone, the British acting Governor had undertaken an expedition against a native chief and his followers on the Mallaghea river to enforce the payment of certain indemnities due to English merchanis for depredations committed upon them by that chief in the latter part of last year, which expedition had proved unsuccessful.

The occount states that the troops had par-tially destroyed the town of Mallaghea, and on the 23d of May were proceeding to complete the work, when they were surprised by thousands of the natives, overpowered, and driven from the shore with a loss of 73 men of the 1st and 2d West India regiment (out of 150 rank and file sent on the expedition), in killed, missing, and wounded, with 11 others also wounded, who succeeded in getting off to the ship. Beside these Lieut. Wylle and Acting Paymaster Andrews, of the Teazer, were killed; Commander Nicholas was severely wounded in both legs; Lieut. Vincent, 2d W. I. regiment, severely wounded; an officer of the Sierra Leone militia was wounded; an assistant commissary general taken prisoner; a naval officer and two seamen missing, and three seamen wounded; making a total loss in killed, wounded, and missing of 94. Of a party of 40 men who entered the town first, but 5 escaped. The name of the chief is given as Bambah Mimah Lahi. His prime minister went down to the wharf when the Teazer and the expedition arrived, and was immediately seized prisoner of war. After the defeat he was lib-erated on condition of his effecting the release of the English prisoners. Eight of these were subsequently delivered up, but the majority of those taken were cruelly murdered. There was also a report that British subjects had been seized by the natives on the Rio Nunez, and the sloop-of-war Ferret had been dispatched in that direction. The factories at Bintey had not disturbed, though much excitement prevailed there. The New Era says that the re-fractory chief had ordered the river at the point where it joins the Moricariah branch, to be filled up with stones, so as to prevent any vessel even of moderate draught from passing. secures Mallaghea, but it will prove an incalinjury to the merchants who formerly loaded large vessels as high up as that town.

RAPE .- A young man named John Lawless, about 18 years old, was arrested last Thursday at Sardis, in this county, on a charge of at-tempted rape upon a little girl only 4 years and 8 months old. He had his trial before Esquires 8 months old. He had his trial verore Esquires Jefferson and Reed, which occupied nearly all day on Friday. The evidence was sufficiently conclusive, and he was held to bail in $400, which his father gave, and the young man was discharged.

The penalty in this State, for rape on a child under 12 years of age, is death. As bail was improperly allowed, it is said the magistrates have ordered the re-arrest of Lawless.

Later.—We learn that young Lawless is still at large. A number of men went to his father's on Saturday night, determined to take house on Saturday night, determined to take him by force and execute summary punishment upon him. They were fired upon from the house, and one of the party, named William McMillen, was shot in the back, but not dangerously wounded. Considerable excitement prevailed, and it is reported that another attack was to be made last night.—Mays. Eagle.

THE REVOLUTION IN NORTHERN MEXICO.

CORPUS CHRISTI, July 2, 1855.
The Laredo mail arrived last evening, bringing intelligence that Carvajal and Capistran, with a sufficient force, were besieging Camargo, and that it was the intention of the revolutionists, after taking the place, to march at once upon Matamoros, and drive Woll out. At previous accounts, Camargo was garrisoned by six hundred men, and it is probable there will be a desperate conflict before it can be taken. The States of Tamaulipas, Coahuila, and New Leon are united in this matter, and the only points now remaining in the hands of the Government are Camargo, Matamoros, and Tampico. are Camargo, Matamoros, and Tampico.

Col. Cruz, who was in command at Saltillo, surrendered the place without a struggle, and retired with all his forces in the direction of San Luis Potosi. With scarcely a single exception, all of the principal men in the three States above named, have taken part in the revisition and possessible to the state of the st olution, and no one here entertains any doubt of its success. The combined forces were to have concentrated at Agua Lejas, to pass on the road to Monterey at the borders of Tamaulipas and New Leon. I presume they must have done so, as the letters from Rio Grande City, speak of the united forces and the command of Carvajal. So far the latter is the only leader of note I have heard mentioned in connection with the revolu-tionary forces. Jauregui is in Monterey, I be-lieve, and will probably remain there to watch for the approach of Government troops from the interior.

P. S.—Since writing the above, I have seen a letter from Brownsville, which states that Woll is busily engaged in fortifying Matamo-ras and Reynosa, and has determined upon maintaining these positions until he can obtain reinforcements from Vera Cruz, which he was reinforcements from Vera Cruz, which he was daily expecting. The writer also says that the chiefs of the revolutionists were quarrelling among themselves. The principal of these appears to be Juan Suaza, of Lampazas, a noted guerrilla leader during the last war with the United States, and famous among his countrymen for his intrepidity in fight ng Indians. The most wonderful tales are told of his courage, and he seems to be a man around whom his countrymen would rally in an emergency like countrymen would rally in an emergency like the present.

The revolutionists, it is said, have no artillery, and unless they take some at Camargo it will be a matter of great doubt whether they can effect anything against either Reynosa or Matamoros. They have, or will have, plenty of money, however, and artillery can easily be pro-

THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 19, 1855.

Since writing a brief article the other day on the subject of the vote of Portland precinct, our attention has been called to the following Act of Assembly, passed and approved 25th February, 1854:

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the voters of that portion of the Portland district now annexed to the city of Louisville shall vote with said city in general and municipal elections, their voting place to be the one now established by law: Provided also, That the voters residing in the residue of the district, outside of the limits of said city, be allowed to vote at the house of David Blankenbaker, situated in said district in Jefferson county: Provided further, The vote as recited in the first part of this act be enumerated with said city, and the votes in last part of this act to be counted with the vote of Jefferson county.

We understand this to be an effort to take the Portland vote for Representatives from the county of Jefferson and attach it to the vote for Representative of the city of Louisville. It is our opinion that the Legislature had no power or authority to make this change at any other time than at a session when an apportionment bill may pass; and an apportionment bill can pass only at the session fixed by the constitution, to-wit: 1850, 1857, and every eight years

It is true the city of Louisville and Jefferson county are both in the seventh district as laid off by the constitution, and the Legislature at their session of 1850-'51 apportioned the one hundred members of the lower house among the ten districts, giving to Louisville four members, and the county of Jefferson two. Portland at that time was not in the city limits, or any part of the city; and it voted with Jefferson county for Representatives, according to the provisions of that act. For all the purposes of representation, Louisville and Jefferson county were as separate and distinct territories as Fulton and Pike or any other two counties in the State. For argument, suppose the Legislature had at the session of 1853-54 taken a part from the county of Oldham, and annexed it to the county of Jefferson-how would the voters of the annexed territory have voted in 1855? With Oldham county of course. Further: suppose the Legislature at the session of 1853-'54 had formed a new county out of parts of Jefferson, Oldham, and Shelby, and the voters in the new county came up to the ratio of 1850-'51-would this new county have been entitled to a separate Representative before 1857? Certainly not; because it would have been a new apportionment at a time not contemplated by the constitution, but in derogation of its plain and obvious import; and, in the last-mentioned instance, the voters in the supposed new county would continue to vote with the several counties in which they had resided before the new county was formed until the next apportionment according to the constitu-

To allow Portland to vote with Louisville at the election in 1855 would be to withdraw so many of the votes from the county and add them to the city. If the Legislature has the power to make a small change of this kind, it has the power to make a great one. If it can withdraw one tenth of the voting population from the county and add it to the city, can it not as well take nine-tenths? The effect would be to give to thirty-five hundred or four thousand votes one representative, and to five hundred votes two representatives.

We are still of opinion, the Act of the last session to the contrary notwithstanding, that, at the ensuing August election, the whole Portland vote must be cast for the county candidates for the House of Representatives, and be counted with the county vote.

BRITISH ESPIONAGE.—In the course of the trial of the British Consul for a violation of our national neutrality laws by the recruiting of men at Cincinnati for the British service, Mr Rowecroft attempted to maintain his exemp tion from arrest on the ground that, by the law of nations, ministers or ambassadors are free from arrest. This is no doubt good law for the case, if Mr. R. can show that he is a minister and not merely a consul. An ambassador represents his sovereign, but a cousul is only the commercial agent of the State from which he comes accredited. As the sovereign of another country is not amenable to our laws, so neither is his representative; but a consul, who is not invested with any such sanctity, is responsible for any violation of the criminal laws of the country in which he resides. Mr. Rowecroft, we learn from the Cincinnati Commercial, claimed that his duties were those of an ambassador rather than a consul, and that, as an ambassador, he was exempt from arrest under any circumstances, and, in illustration of this position, he stated that it was a part of his duties to watch the "Cuban pirates" being organized here, and report to his government whatever he could learn.

If the British consul really made any such pretension as this, the impudence of the defence is worse, more flagrant, than the outrage for which he was on trial. What business has the British government to send its spies or agents into the interior of our country to ferret out fillibustering expeditions? We have a government of our own to attend to these things, and we can probably do without aid from England in the execution of our laws. And what of it, even if there were fillibusters enrolling for Cuban conquest in Cincinnati? How was that to affect England? What did she propose to do in the premises? Is the mission of Mr. Rowecroft a part of the programme of proceedings of the Allies to carry out their "unity of thought and action in every quarter of the world and on every subject that interests mankind?" John Bull is a thrifty, trafficking old fellow and is ever anxious to do a little profitable business; hence it is, that, while he has his agents here watching to prevent our people from plunder- $24,000 sterling.

Charles McDonald, Donald Gilbraith, and Angus Gillespie were arrested at Buffalo, on the 16th inst., and brought before the Commissioner, charged with the offense of hiring and retaining certain persons within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States with intent to enlist the same in the service of the Queen of Great Britain.

THE SEMINOLES IN ARKANSAS. - The Van the dissatisfaction which prevails among the Seminoles on the Arkansas frontier:

These Indians were sent west and settled on the lands of the Creek Indians. A treaty was formed in 1845, to which the United States and the Creeks were parties with the Seminoles, under which they lived peaceably for several years, but Wildcat, the well-known Seminole, became dissatisfied at being ruled by the Creeks, gathered a party of Seminoles and negroes, and crossed into Mexico, where he has lived as an outlaw ever since. The same feeling has grown with the remant of the tribes in the Indian territory, who have lately withdrawn from the Creek Council, and have held one among themselves for the purpose of throwing off the Creek yoke and demanding a partition of the lands, that they may set up for themselves independently. They are on Creek lands, and by treaty are subject to Creek laws, but they are dissatisfied and restless and bent upon a change. There are the materials there for a harrassing Indian disturbance, unless Government interferes wisely and

MR. MINISTER MASON AND A PERSECUTED Young American Lady .- From one of the recent letters of Rev. Dr. Thompson we make the following extract:

While seated one morning in the office of the American ambassador, Mr. Mason came in, and after the usual salutations said: "Did you ever get into a profuse perspiration and have a wet blanket thrown over you?" "No." "I did yesterday. A lady came to me with the following narrative: 'I am from the United States, and have in care a young lady who has been visiting her friends in this country. She is a Protestant, and her father and mother, when dying, charged her never to forsake her faith or marry a Catho-She has, moreover, a Protestant friend in the United States, to whom she is attached, and to whom, on her return to New York, she expects to be married.

While in the south of France she met with a French gentleman who was smitten with her; he procured an introduction to her, and has been courting her with unremitting attentions ever since. She has used every measure to shake him off; she has frowned upon him; she has told him she can never marry him, that it is utterly impossible; that his attentions are unpleasant, wearisome, disgusting, even painful to her, and she has peremptorily ordered him never to see her. He replies, "that is impossible till I die. I cannot live without seeing you." We came to this city in hopes to escape him, but he watched our movements and came with us. We sought to hide from him here; but he has found us out. We have told him that we shall leave the country, and that he had better return home. no!" says he, "I will go with you when you go, I will stop when you stop, I will stay where you put up, I will live where you live, I will die where you die." Now, can nothing be done to save us from this annoyance.

Mr. Mason said he immediately sent for the prefect of police and gave him the facts in presence of the old lady. "Your troubles are at an end," said the police officer; "the young man will see your ward no more. Give me his name and address; we will command him, and if he obey not, we have a way of making him obey." Mr. M. returned with the old lady to her lodgings, and announced to the young one the joyful news of her deliverance from the annoyance to which she had been subjected, when lo! with a gush of grief she cried, "O, you have been so crnel as to apply to the police! will wound the young man's feelings. O, he is such a fine, such a noble young man! I would suffer anything rather than wound his heart." "I started homeward," said Mr. M., "immediately, saying within myself, we have been doing mischief; they will be married as sure as the world. No resisting French enthusiasm "

THE GOLD MINES.—We published, not long since, two letters, one from Richard Jones and one from John Harrison, giving favorable ac-counts of the gold regions on the Arkansas river.

A brother of the editor of the Warsaw Democrat, writing from Washburn's Prairie, in the corner of the State, declares that Jones's letter is a hoax—that he has conversed with a man who was actually at the so-called gold regions and has just returned, who, after a thorough search, aided by twenty-five companions, found lot of shining scales that resem bled gold. There are about eleven hundred persons in the neighborhood of the Ouchita Mountains and the Red Fork of the Arkansas, who at the latest accounts, were intently searching for treasure. It is doubtful if we have, as yet, had any perfectly reliable accounts from the to its auriferous character. We ought to have them before long, however.

Twenty-five hundred persons have left South-western Missouri in quest of the reported trea-sures, and, as they cannot live without eating, gold or no gold, their neighbors, who remained at home, are now following them with droves of cattle on a speculation. We shall have somecattle on a speculation. We shall have some-thing reliable from there before a great while, and in the meantime we counsel young adven-turers to preserve an equable and placid temper. St. Louis Er

"Hurra" is a Slavic word, which may be heard from the shores of the Dalmatia to Behring's Straits, when men are called upon for any proof Straits, when men are called upon for any proof of courage or valor. The origin of the word is from the primitive idea, that every man who dies bravely for his country will go directly to heaven (huraja—to paradise). Thus Allah—God—among the Turks, is always heard resounding; each one encouraging himself to forget earth and despise death, by the hope of an immediate reward.

Ocean Steamers .- We learn from Quebec that Grean Steamers.—We learn from Quebec that government have accepted the tender of Mr. Hugh Allan, to run a line of steamers between this country and England. This agreement binds him to run vessels of 1,750 tons, and 350 horse power, to make 14 fortnightly trips from Liverpool to Canada, and five monthly trips to Portland, in each year, at an annual bonus of PRYOR'S RED APPLE TREE BLIGHT .- The Pryor's Red apple has long been considered one of the best of our Western market fruits. Within a few years past, however, a disease has attacked the trees which threatens its total extinction. It first made its appearance upon old trees, while young and vigorous trees, which received a thorough annual cultivation, were exempt, but more recently nearly all of the trees of this variety are more or less affected by it. The disease makes its appearance upon the leaves in the early part of summer in the form of small round, rusty spots, assuming a yellowish tinge around the edges. Where it makes its appearance, every tree of this variety in the orchard appears to be attacked alike and preits appearance, every tree of this variety in the orchard appears to be attacked alike and present the appearance, even for miles distant, of dying trees. In an orchard of fifty varieties of apples this is the only one attacked. We have, I however, noticed it upon the leaves of the wild crab and upon the Hedge Thorn, where they were growing in the vicinity of the Pryor's Buren (Ark.) Intelligencer speaks as follows of Red. It is a parasitic fungus, and the leaves where it is attacked are considerably thickened, and, when fully advanced, is at least a sixteenth of an inch thick. Under a high magnifying glass these spots show the full development of perfect plants.

Whether this disease is the result of impaired vigor of the tree, or whether it has been communicated from some diseased stock in propagating the variety, we are at a loss to conjecture, and of course we are equally at a loss to propose a remedy. Young trees, on good land, well cultivated are the least affected; hence we conclude that any course calculated to sustain the tree in its greatest vigor should be practiced.

The trees of this variety in the nursery have manifested a feebleness for twenty years past. Knight and several other distinguished horticulturists of England maintained the doctrine that trees had a limited period of duration, and that fruit trees, the varieties of which were propagated by budding and grafting them from the parent stock and its descendants, at the end of the period allotted it by nature the old tree and all that had been propagated from it (which are only parts of the original tree) would dwindle and die. This theory was strongly advocated by the late Col. James Allen, an old and distinguished nurseryman of Nelson county, Ky., and who always cited the feebleness of Pryor's Red in proof of his belief. But as the seedling trees, the wild crab and the thorn, to which we have referred are equally diseased, we think it affords no argument in support of Knight's theory. The Lombardy poplar, which is a diæcious tree, grew forty years ago with the most perfect health and vigor, but has now become so entirely diseased and enfeebled that a perfect specimen cannot be found in our country. These rees have all been propagated from the original importation, which were exclusively of the male class, he pistilate variety having never found its way into this country. Some have at tributed the sudden disease of the poplar to the Knight theory, while others assume to believe that trees of the diacious family, either sex of which, if propagated by cuttings and grown separately, will finally dwindle and die.

We throw out these hints with the view to elicit facts and opinions from others, and, if possible, to find a remedy for the apple tree blight.

FEMALE LAWYERS .- Mrs. E Oakes Smith is out in favor of female practitioners at the bar. She says:

Emma C. Coe, I am told, has already entered into practice at Philadelpoia, Pa.; Elizabeth Young is doing the same at Lowell, Mass; and now I have a letter before me from a young lady at Mansfield, Mass., who has chosen a like ca reer. This young girl—grave, self-poised, handsome, and intelligent—cannot fail to move in a sphere honorable alike to herself and use-

The Countess of Montejo, who is the mother of the Empress of the French, intending shortly to go to Paris to see her daughter, sent all her jewels in the Ambassador's dispatch-bag, rected to the Empress, supposing that to be the safest wey. By some means or other the Chief of the Carlists got information of the fact, posted some of his men on the road, seized the booty, and escaped without discovery. The loss to the Countess is estimated at £50,000.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.

THE OLD FARM HOUSE.

THE name of the authoress of the above work speaks volumes in its favor, and in this she has produced the crowning effort of her pen. For freshness and vigor of thought and style and for originality—in the charming views of country life at the "Old Farm Hause"—in the striking illustrations of the follies of a fashionable city life—in her description of good and evil natures—in all the various subjects which she has touched with her magic pen, she cannot be gxeelied. The gentle heroine, Amy, is a model of patience and virtue, persecuted by the evil gentus of h.r life, the villain Staunton.

The book will be read with avidity, and none who commence it will desire to lay it aside till finished. We offer with full confidence that its perusal will be attended with pleasure and profit to all readers. Price $1.25.

LATEST NEWS.

RIOTS .- HOUSES STONED-A MAN AND WO-MAN SHOT .- We are sorry to state that the lower part of the city was disgraced last night by several outrages. A number of shots were fired between 10 and 11 o'clock, and Mr. Ste phen Alford was shot in the arm when near Chapel, on Main street, and Mrs. Lee, who was looking out of an upper window of the building on the corner of Main and Chapel streets, was also shot. The wounds are not dangerous. Two houses occupied by Irish people, one in the alley betwern Tenth and Eleventh and Market and Jefferson, and the other in the alley between Twelfth and Thirteenth and Market and Jefferson streets, were stoned. We do not hear that the inmates suffered any injury. There were no arrests made. Such outrages deserve and will receive the severest censure of every citizen. Where were the police? Reports having gained circulation that the Catholic Church on Thirteenth street had fire-arms in it, it was visited last evening by several gentlemen by request of Father Joyes, but nothing of the kind was found in it.

We are indebted to the Southerner for late St. Louis papers.

the press:

"As a story writer this lady has no superior. She ranks as the first female author of America, and deservedly so. Her works have attained the highest reputation, not only as works of fiction, but for the pecul ar beauty and fascination which she weaves into every page of her romances. Her description of character and incidents are life-like and vivid, and always charm and delight the reader. We predict for the 'Missing Bride' not only a flattering reception, but a very extensive sale." [Eanner, Clarion, Pa.]
